Comprehensive Service Offering

Benefit from a wide range of services including threat actor attribution, TTP analysis, risk assessments, malware analysis, and more.

Trellix INTaaS isn't just a service; it's a comprehensive partnership in navigating the complex landscape of cybersecurity. Our dedicated team operates on a disciplined intelligence exploitation cycle, working closely with you to develop and prioritize your intelligence objectives and requirements. The service includes threat actor or group attribution, tactics, technique, and procedures (TTP) analysis, risk assessments driven by threat intelligence, and much more. Our unique model is scalable to best suit your needs, from handling a small set of requests to a larger retainer model, and a physical analyst on-site if needed.

Solutions customized to your needs

We understand that every organization has unique threats and vulnerabilities. Our INTaaS offering delivers tailor-made threat campaign intelligence, providing greater visibility into specific threats targeting your organization. This personalized approach helps you make the most of your security tools and teams, offering broad, out-of-the-box threat visibility and reporting.

Unprecedented insight through data correlation

Trellix INTaaS harnesses the industry's most extensive and advanced correlation of threat data, offering insight into a wide range of threats. Whether it's malware, malicious infrastructure, or social network, our team provides comprehensive reporting in a custom form factor, defined by you, aimed at answering your requests.

Tailored reporting and briefings for effective decision making

We believe in the power of informed decision-making. INTaaS includes automated collection and reporting of the efficacy of Trellix solutions in your environment. Furthermore, we correlate detection events with threat campaigns and actors, providing a holistic view of your security landscape. Our tailored Request for Information (RFI) service offers detailed research, report readouts, and additional tools to detect and prevent RFIs. Our executive briefings present these findings to your management team, enabling you to take proactive steps towards improving your security efficacy.
